Statement:

My desire to serve as your Congressman is as strong today as it was four decades ago when I first ran for Congress. I want to continue fighting for Alaska to make this state a better place for all Alaskans.

While we have enjoyed many accomplishments in our state's history, such as construction of the Trans-Alaska pipeline, protection of our fishing industry and ensuring seniors have access to care, I believe we are at a critical turning point in our nation's history. Currently, President Obama and his Administration have laid their heavy hand of government over many vital Alaskan industries, jeopardizing our state's economic and social well-being by locking away our lands and oceans to resource development and pushing harmful federal policies upon Alaskan small business owners and families. Time and time again, we have seen the severe impacts of federal bureaucrats who believe they know best for Alaska. But as we all know, Alaska is not a "one-size fits all" state.

This Administration's policies continue to be a drag on the American economy, resulting in skyrocketing deficits, staggering debts, and outrageous energy prices. It's crucially important Alaskans have an experienced fighter representing them in the House of Representatives. Whether it's defending each and every Alaskan's right to bear arms or continuing my fight for responsible development of our abundant resources, my number one priority has been and continues to be standing up for Alaska. With your support and encouragement I believe we can continue Alaska's progress forward.
